

COPYRIGHT NOTICE

Effective Date: September 1, 2026

© 2026 Anderson Hunter Solutions, LLC. All rights reserved.

Ownership of Website Content

Unless otherwise stated, the original text, graphics, logos, service descriptions, downloadable resources, forms, page layouts, photographs, illustrations, branding, and other content created for this website are owned by Anderson Hunter Solutions, LLC ("AHS") or used with permission. They are protected by United States and applicable international copyright, trademark, and other intellectual-property laws.

Permitted Personal Use

Visitors may view, print, or download a reasonable portion of website content for their own personal, noncommercial reference, provided that the content is not altered and all copyright, ownership, and attribution notices remain intact. This limited permission does not transfer ownership or grant a license for commercial use.

Uses Requiring Written Permission

Without prior written permission from AHS, visitors may not:

- Copy, reproduce, republish, distribute, display, sell, license, or commercially exploit substantial website content;
- Modify, adapt, translate, remove branding from, or create derivative works from AHS materials;
- Use AHS content, forms, graphics, or service descriptions to provide or advertise another business's services;
- Use the Anderson Hunter Solutions name, AHS logo, tagline, or other branding in a way that suggests sponsorship, approval, affiliation, or endorsement;
- Systematically scrape, harvest, archive, or reproduce website content through automated means; or
- Remove or conceal copyright, trademark, source, or ownership notices.

Third-Party Materials

Some photographs, icons, fonts, software, embedded tools, carrier information, social-media content, or other materials may belong to third parties and may be subject to separate license terms. AHS claims no ownership of third-party materials beyond the rights granted to AHS. Permission to use AHS-owned content does not include permission to use third-party content.

Requests for Permission

To request permission to use AHS content, submit a request through the Contact AHS page or another verified contact method published on the website. Identify the specific material, the proposed use, where it will appear, the intended audience, and whether the use is commercial. Permission is not granted unless AHS provides written approval.

Reporting Possible Infringement

If you believe material on the website infringes your copyright or other intellectual-property rights, contact AHS through a verified website contact method. Include enough information to identify the protected work, locate the material at issue, explain your good-faith concern, and allow AHS to respond. Do not include sensitive personal or financial information in a general message.

No Statement of Registration

This notice identifies AHS as the copyright claimant for applicable website content. It does not state or imply that every item has been separately registered with the U.S. Copyright Office. Copyright ownership and federal registration are distinct matters.

Wix footer version

© 2026 Anderson Hunter Solutions, LLC. All rights reserved.